

Chaskee®

Collection 2019

*Original neoprene
visor headwear*

Chaskee® Headwear
www.chaskee.com - info@chaskee.com

Chaskee takes its inspiration from the outdoor prowess of the sun-worshipping Inca runners called "Chasquis." These royal messengers quickly traversed the dramatic distance between the Andes Mountain heights and the glistening blue waters of the Pacific Ocean.

Chaskee pioneered the use of the neoprene visor as a central component for making comfortable and functional outdoor headwear. Whether for hiking, running, surfing, canoeing or racket sports, Chaskee headwear effectively and comfortably provides protection from the sun and rain and enables one to always look, feel and perform his or her best.

Chaskee products are designed in California and tested in Switzerland, according to the most rigorous standards of quality, style and functionality.

Chaskee is aligned with the Swiss-based non-profit organization called the "Energee Association" which instigates and oversees a variety of human enhancement efforts, ranging from paying for the medical insurance for our workers to funding the digging of water wells in outlying villages.

A portion of the Chaskee profits is set aside to promote these projects

Chaskee's UV protection capabilities are measured by Testex, Europe's leading textile testing institute, which applies the UV Standard 801 Rating System.

Specific Chaskee styles have achieved the highest possible 80 Rating and stand alone as the best in the world..

Advantages of Chaskee Headwear:

highest quality construction - 20 with up to 80 UV protection ultra comfortable fit - flexible & bendable reversible & lightweight multifunctional, one size fits all - washable

*Chaskee holds patents on neoprene visor caps:
European Patent EP0850574 : USA Utility Patent US5754983*

ENERGEE

Chaskee is socially committed and we are aligned with the Swiss-based non-profit organization called the Energee Association, which initiates and oversees a variety of human enhancement efforts in the states of Maharashtra and Uttar Pradesh in India.

Projects range from paying for the medical insurance for our workers, to funding the digging of water wells, installations of water pumps and pipelines, restructuring schools, installing solar panels and lights and placing playgrounds in outlying villages.

A portion of the Chaskee profits is set aside to promote these projects.

Our efforts are intended to promote human flourishing in a manner that avoids paternalism, ideological litmus tests and bureaucratic excesses.

Chaskee uv ratings

We are testing most of our caps at the Swiss Textile Testing Institute TESTEX and we are authorised to use the UV-label 80 and 60 in accordance with UV Standard 801.

UV Standard 801 is a normative document issued by the International Testing Association for Applied UV Protection.

The member institutes of the International Testing Association for Applied UV Protection have set themselves the objective of determining the UV protection provided by a functional product in such a way that the strains and stresses imposed on the material in practice are taken into account.

With this objective UV Standard 801 goes far beyond the requirements of the Australia/New Zealand Standard (AS/NZS 4399:1996) and of the European standard EN 13758-1 and remedies their principal weaknesses.

This standard is applicable to all flat functional products, such as textiles, clothing, shoes, awnings, sunshades, leather, films, etc., which can in any way protect human beings against UV radiation. The transmission of UV radiation (UVA and UVB) is measured and the UV Protection Factor determined on the textiles being tested. For example, in the course of testing, clothing textiles are washed and abraded, and shading textiles are appropriately exposed to weathering, as well as being moistened and stretched in a defined manner for measurement.

The UV Protection Factor (UPF) indicates how much longer the user of sun-protective textiles or the wearer of UV-protective clothing can remain in the sun without suffering skin damage. The UV Protection Factor UPF is identical to the sun or light-protection factor of sun creams (SPF or LPF).
